Early Life and Career

Linda Sue Dixon was born in Alexandria, Louisiana, in 1949. Her entrepreneurial spirit emerged at a young age as she started a successful babysitting business at the age of 12. After graduating from high school, she attended Louisiana State University, where she earned a degree in business. Upon graduation, she began her career in the banking industry, quickly rising through the ranks and becoming one of the first women to hold a senior management position at a major bank in Louisiana.

Business Success

In the 1980s, Linda Sue ventured into the male-dominated field of oil and gas exploration. She founded her own company, LHC Inc., which became one of the leading independent oil and gas exploration and production companies in the Gulf of Mexico. LHC Inc. was also one of the first companies in the industry to implement innovative technologies, including 3D seismic imaging, which significantly improved drilling efficiency and reduced environmental impact.

Under Linda Sue's leadership, LHC Inc. grew exponentially, making her one of the most successful women in the energy industry. She was recognized for her achievements with numerous awards, including being named one of the "Top 10 Women in Energy" by the Houston Business Journal and being inducted into the Louisiana Oil and Gas Hall of Fame.

Philanthropy and Community Involvement

Linda Sue has always believed in giving back to the community. She has generously supported numerous organizations, including those focused on education, healthcare, and the arts. She is a founding member of the Louisiana Committee on Foreign Relations, an organization dedicated to promoting international understanding and collaboration.

In 2003, Linda Sue established the Christopher Hennessy Jr. Foundation in memory of her late husband. The foundation supports a wide range of charitable causes, with a particular focus on education and the arts. Linda Sue is deeply involved in the foundation's work, personally reviewing grant applications and visiting the organizations that receive funding.

Arts Advocacy

Linda Sue is a passionate advocate for the arts. She has served on the boards of numerous arts organizations, including the New Orleans Museum of Art, the New Orleans Opera Association, and the Louisiana Philharmonic Orchestra. She has also been a major donor to many arts initiatives, both large and small.

In 2015, Linda Sue co-founded the Arts Council of New Orleans, an organization dedicated to supporting the arts community in New Orleans. She remains a leading advocate for arts education and funding, recognizing the transformative power of the arts in enriching lives and building stronger communities.

Personal Life

Linda Sue Dixon Christopher Hennessy is married to John W. Christopher Sr., a retired businessman and philanthropist. They have two children and five grandchildren. Linda Sue enjoys spending time with her family, traveling, and reading. She is an avid art collector and is also passionate about gardening and cooking.

Legacy

Linda Sue Dixon Christopher Hennessy is a remarkable woman who has made a significant impact on the world through her business success, philanthropy, and arts advocacy. Her leadership, vision, and dedication have left an enduring legacy that will continue to inspire generations to come.

Linda Sue's journey is a testament to the power of perseverance, innovation, and compassion. She has shown that it is possible to achieve great success in business while also making a meaningful contribution to society. Her example will continue to inspire others to dream big and to use their talents and resources to make the world a better place.
