In this article, we will delve into the evidence and allegations surrounding the possible connection between Oswald and the CIA. We will explore the motivations, theories, and unanswered questions that continue to fuel speculation and debate.

The Warren Commission and the House Select Committee on Assassinations

In the aftermath of the Kennedy assassination, President Lyndon B. Johnson appointed the Warren Commission to investigate the circumstances surrounding the tragedy. The commission's report, released in 1964, concluded that Oswald acted alone in assassinating Kennedy.

In the 1970s, the House Select Committee on Assassinations (HSCA) reopened the investigation into the Kennedy assassination. The HSCA's report, released in 1979, concluded that Oswald was "probably a lone gunman" but that there was "a possibility that Oswald was not the only gunman involved in the assassination of President Kennedy." The HSCA also found that there was "no evidence that the CIA was involved in the assassination of President Kennedy."

Allegations of CIA Involvement

Despite the findings of the Warren Commission and the HSCA, allegations of CIA involvement in the Kennedy assassination have persisted. These allegations have been based on a variety of evidence, including:

- Oswald's defection to the Soviet Union in 1959. Oswald lived in the USSR for two years, during which time he married a Russian woman and had a child. Some believe that Oswald may have been recruited by the CIA during this time.

- Oswald's return to the United States in 1962. Oswald returned to the United States in 1962 and began working for the Fair Play for Cuba Committee, a pro-Castro group. Some believe that Oswald may have been working for the CIA at this time, and that he may have been involved in a CIA plot to assassinate Castro.
- Oswald's surveillance by the FBI and CIA. Oswald was under surveillance by both the FBI and the CIA in the months leading up to the assassination. Some believe that this surveillance may have been part of a CIA plot to monitor Oswald's activities.
- Oswald's assassination by Jack Ruby. Oswald was assassinated by Jack Ruby, a night club owner, in the basement of the Dallas police station on November 24, 1963. Some believe that Ruby may have been part of a CIA plot to silence Oswald.

Motivations for CIA Involvement

If the CIA was involved in a plot to assassinate Kennedy, there are a number of possible motivations that could have driven the agency's actions. These motivations include:

- Anti-Castro sentiment. The CIA was deeply involved in efforts to overthrow the Cuban government of Fidel Castro. Some believe that the CIA may have believed that Kennedy was not sufficiently committed to the anti-Castro cause, and that he may have even been planning to normalize relations with Cuba.
- Operation Mongoose. Operation Mongoose was a CIA-led covert action program aimed at overthrowing the Cuban government. Some believe that the CIA may have used Oswald to carry out a terrorist attack against Cuba, in order to provoke a war between the United States and Cuba.

- Domestic politics. Some believe that the CIA may have been involved in a plot to assassinate Kennedy for domestic political reasons. Kennedy was a popular president, but he also had a number of powerful enemies. Some believe that the CIA may have believed that Kennedy's assassination would benefit their own interests.
